TO THE INHABITANTS of SYDNEY and NEW SOUTH WALES,—The difficulty of obtaining TEA of really fine quality has been long felt by every one who can appreciate the luxury. In catering for the public in this indispensable article of daily consumption, S. Bennett and Co, have found, during their experience as tea dealers in this city, that teas of medimm fine quality are rarely imported,— the best, never: The reason assigned by merchants is that they cannot obtain renumerative prices for outlay of capital. Such being the facts, S. B. and Co.
having determined to establish a name in this country for the sale of a superior quality of tea, at their own risk and cost, have made arrangements with the well-known tea merchants. Messrs. Brown and Co. Spring-street, for the exclusive importation of a regular supply of such tea as S. B. and Co. know (from long experience as tea dealers in the west of England and some of the first establishments in London) will suit the fastes of all consumers, but of connoissenra particularly. And they now have the pleasure of announcing to their friends and the public generally that the first parcel of this tea has arrived per Atalanta, and is, without exception, the finest ever offered in this country:
it requires no mixing, being of itself a combination of great streagth, with fine pelcoe sonchong flavour. Large consumers will find this to be the most economical tea, onehalf the quantity being sufficient to produce a better infusion than the tea generally sold. The truth of these assections may be easily proved by a trial, which is respectfully solicited by CAUTION.—The failure of James Davies and Sons, the largest exporters of Boots and Shoes to the Australian colonies, has caused the most sudden reaction in the prices of Boots and Shoes ever known. The Proprietors of Commerce Hall, 785, George-treet South, contemplating for some months the results which must have necessarily occurred from such reckless shipments, had laid in an immense stock, and are now offering them at the same rares as hitherto. Families, country storekeepers, and others are recommended to supply themselves at once. Copy the address—Commerce Hall, 788, George-street South, between the Haymarket and Railway Station, left hand side from the city.

TEA.—The most choice and experiative mixture of BLACK TEAS in Sydney.—BANKS and COMPANY fearlessly assert they are selling at the present time Teas of a character never surpassed in the colony of New South Wales. The peculiar blending of certain proportions of the finest of the present season's growth produces a beverage remarkable for its richness and fine delicate flavour; the price being moderate, viz., 2s. 6d. per lb., places it in the reach of all classes.

ANKS and COMPANY'S superlative Australian Mixture, being a combination of the choleest kinds of BLACK and GREEN TEAS. The intrinsic excellence of this Tea is in the admisture. The knowledge of the quality that each variety possesses, with a judicious bleuding of the same, has enabled Hanks and Company to surmount a difficulty generally felt in Sydney to obtain this article in as high a state of perfection as in England; knowing that nothing can surpass this superior article, they with confidence recommend it to the public of Sydney. The price, only 2s. 64, per lb., makes it available to all classes of consumers.

"Tell Lea and Perrin, that their sauce is highly esteemed in India, and Perrin, that their sauce is highly esteemed in India, and see in the most palatable as well as the most wholesome sauce that is made."

EXTENSIVE FRAUDS.

Land P. having discovered that several of the foreign markets have been supplied with spurious initations of their Worcestershire Sauce, the labels of which closely resemble those of the genuine sauce, and in one or more instances with the names of Le and P. forged, they have deemed it their duty to caution the public, and to request purchasers to see that the names of Lea and Perria are upon the wrapper, label, stopper, and bottle.

Land P. further give notice that they will proceed against any one who may infringe upon their right, either by manufacturing or vending such initiations, and have instructed their correspondents in the various parts of the world to advise them of such infringements.

HOME AND FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

Ws continue, from the Melbourne papers, our extracts of news to 30th December, brought by the Monica from Liverpool.

English opera has at last succeeded in London. The new opera by Balfe ("Satanella, or the Power of Love") appears to have achieved an immense success. We find in the English papers the following notice of this event, so interesting to English composers:—Convent Garden Theatre was opened on Monday night by the operatic company under the management of Miss Louisa Pyne and Mr. Harrison. The occasion was celebrated by the production of a new work called "Satanella, or the Power of Love," the music from the pen of Mr. Balfe. How it was received may be gathered from the fact that no less than six pieces were re-demanded and repeated, and that the composer was summoned before the footlights three times in the course of the evening. There was a crowded and brilliant audience.

Charles Lever, the distinguished novelist, has been appointed Her Majesty's vice-consul at Spezzis.

French advices asy that the news from Cochin China is good, and that the French and Spanish expeditionary forces intended to attack Hue about the 19th of this month.

In France and Italy the belief still prevails that the coming spring will winness great events—in plain words, war; and the latest news from Palis seems to indicate that the French Government shares in the belief, and is preparing for the emergency. Austria is endeavouring to smooth down the discontent in her Italian possessions by attending to the popular complaints relative to the conscription and the currence.

Prussia is now about to make an earnest effort to create a first the Beltic Anales and the servers.

Prussia is now about to make an earnest effort to create a fleet in the Baltic. An alteration in the array is also contemplated. The alteration, it is supposed, will consist in placing the Landwehr on a permanent feeting and incorporating it into the line, so that create a nect in the Baltic. An alteration, it is supposed, will consist in placing the Landwehr on a permanent footing, and incorporating it into the line, so that each infantry regiment will contain double the number of companies—24 instead of 12.

Belgrade, at the date of the last accounts, was quiet; but Austria, as a piccautionary measure, has sent two regiments to Semlin, a town on the frontier of Austria, and about two hours' march from Belgrade. The only ties which bind Servia to Turkey are the payment of a yearly tribute to the Porte, and the right of Turkey to place garrisons in the province. It is of this last-named right that the Servians most complain. The Turkish troops, however, have no right to interfere in the internal affairs of Servia, and it is thought that, if they should be induced to do so, the French and Russian Governments would hardly fail to pick a quarrel with the Porte.

Russia seems to be quietly entering on the path which must eventually lead to a political and social transformation of her people. As one significant fact, we may mention that there has not only been of late a great extension of the newspaper press in Russia, but additional newspapers from other countries, which were formerly prohibited, are also now to be admitted.

The Toronto correspondent of the Morning Post states that Lord Bury has experienced a most gratifying reception in Canada, and that the schemes which he is negotiating will, it is believed, confer great and lasting benefits on the whole of British North America. Montreal is represented as the only city in the province which is lukewarm or hostile, and this attitude is attributed to the unwillingness of the Montreal people to encourage an opposition to their splendid line of ocean steamships. As to the Quebe people, they are going heart and soul with Lord Bury in his proposal for establishing a line of steamers between Galway and Quebec, and also with regard to the inter-colonial railway. They are determined to co-operate with his Lordship in these objec

SUICIDE ON A MARRIAGE MORN.—A young man, named Francis Baxter, son of Mr. Thomas Baxter, a respectable dealer in glass and china ware, residing in the High street, Kettering, was, although only 18 years of age, affianced to a girl two years his junior, named Sarah Morris, the daughter of a neighbour. Preparations had been made for the marriage, and Christmas morning was fixed for the happy event. It had been arranged that another young couple, who were to occupy apartments under the same roof, should be married at the same time; and this party was at church at the appointed hour, the clergyman, Rev. T. H. Madge, rector of the parish, being in attendance; but the other couple did not appear. The minister, surprised at the delay, proceeded to marry those at the altar, and on the ceremony being concluded, sent the sexton to inquire into the cause of absence of the missing pair. He returned in a short time with the melancholy tidings that the young man had put an end to his life by shooting himself through the head. A fly had been engaged to take the couple to church, and was waiting at the door of the bride elect, who was in her wedding, dress, anxiously wondering why her betrothed did not make his appearance, when the dreadful news was brought to her that he had died by his own hands in the above frightful manner. His body was found on the bed intended for their bridal couch, a ghastly spectacle, his brains having been literally blown out and seattered over the bed, which was acturated with blood. A pocket pistol lay close to his left hand, and an open prayer-book on his pillow, and the potrait of his betrothed was on a chair by his bed, side. He had not previously slept at the house, but supped there on Christmas Eve with the party spoken of above, when he seemed cheerful and indeed merry. It appeared, however, that he afterwards went Prisoner: About 60 men, suckling children, and babes. There used to be one house in the place with two gables to it; but now it's gone, and God knows where it's gone to. The housekeeper to the Rev. Mr. Wrench, of St. Michael's, Corahill, stated that her master was at present out of town. The prisoner was the brother of her mistress. He was deranged in his mind. After some further conversation, the prisoner was remanded.—Liverpool Meritury, December 29.

NAPLES.

NAPLES, December 21.—As 'regards Englishmen in Naples, the police have almost uniformly shown a certain degree of reserve in meddling with them. Perhaps it is that our habit of respecting law, and our abstimence from all intriguing in the internal affairs of those countries where we reside, protect us from annoyance. Whether it be this, or whether it be a wholesome fear of our Government, it is rarely that we hear of any of our countrymen being seriously inconvenienced by the police. During the last week, however, a British subject 'has made a serious complaint at the Consulate of threats and insults to which he has been subjected, which will be best explained in his own words:—

"To Her Britannic Majesty's Consul, Naples.
"Sir,—Though my correspondence can without danger as without dishonour to me undergo the investigations of the Neapolitan police, I consider it an imperious duty to denounce to you, for the general interest, an act of illegality and savage brutality of which I was the object the day before yesterday, in the person of a man in my service; an act of which it would be impossible to find another example in a civilised country. Having had to complain for a long time of the indiscretion of the police, who, not content with opening all my letters, even made away with them, I resolved at length to extricate myself from their inquisitorial measures, and for this object, the day before yesterday, at three o'clock, entrusted a young man, habitually employed by me in the quality of errand porter, with a letter for London, with orders to carry it to a person of my acquaintance who was leaving in the French steamer the Pausilippe, and would, when this vessel was en route, throw this letter into the box placed on each steamer by the Administration of the Post. But on his way to the port, and when he was opposite the guard, my messenger was seized by an individual very well dressed, and wearing long moustaches, who said to him in a tone of authority, "You have a letter of an Englishman—give it to me which has fallen upon many, of being scerelly transported at the caprice of the Government to Algeria or Cayenne. The result of the appeal is therefore a very great and obvious advantage to the defendant, and would of itself justify the course which he has adopted even though it had not been incumbent on him, as a man of honour and of courage, to contest what he believed to be (and which is now acknowledged to be in part) the unjust decision of the Correctional Police Court. The Finse, however, still maintains that the appeal was obviously a false step, chiefly for these reasons:—"The Emperor had acknowledged himself to be defeated, and that should have been triumph enough for a private gentleman who had had the courage to run full till at the despotic ruler of 35,000,000 of people—the master of 400,000 men actually under arms. What has M. de Montalembert gained by his obstinacy? He has simply re-established the Emperor's line of attack, and compelled him, against his will, to adhere to his original intention. The grand result is that M. de Montalembert will get imprisoned and fined without any great share of public sympathy in his misfortune, because it will be generally supposed that he has wilfully called it down upon his own head."... "The champion of French liberty has descended from his pedestal, and condescended to enter into a contest of police-court law with his opponent. He has been foiled, and the magic of his resistance is gone. He falls, not into the arms of Europe, but into the grasp of a gaoler. We deeply lament it, but we feel it impossible to deny that M. de Montalembert is now hinself in a great measure responsible for all the inconvenience he many be compelled to endure. The cause was so noble a one that we grieve it has been so mishandled as to give to wrong even the appearance of right."

The Daily News, on the other hand, approves of the course pursued by M. de Montalembert, in spite of the risk which he incurred; for—"He would have failed in his duty to himself and to his country, which n

"The chairman (Mr. Walter Buchanan, M.P. for Glasgow, "The chairman (Mr. Walter Buchanan, M.P. for Glasgow), in a short speech, introduced Mr. Bright.

"Mr. Bright, on rising, was again greeted with loud cheers. He commenced by saying that when he looked at the great question which stirred the hearts of his countrymen? Was it some phantom which they could never overtake? He believed that they had some great object which had brought them together that evening: they were there to discuss the great question of Parliamentary Reform. Let him remind them that when they discussed the reform of the House of Commons they discussed the reform of the House of Commons they discussed by far the most important branch of the Legislature, which was not only consistent with liberty, but was inseparable from liberty in this country. William Penn gave this definition of liberty—that country is a free country where the laws rule, and the people make the laws. In the discussion of this question (said Mr. Bright) we are in a very different position than when I was here before. Now it is allowed that we have figures on our side. Now nobody gets up to tell us from the multiplication-table that the people of England are fairly represented in the House of Commons. The whole body of the electors of the United Kingdom amount to one-sixth of the people, and one-sixth of that number of electors return balf the members of the United Kingdom. Mr. Bright then proceeded to give some illustrations of the inequality of the representation. Everybody sees, he said, that Parliament sitting half the year must do something; but perhaps it would be impossible to devise an instrument more clamsy and more untrustworthy for the purpose for which it exists. There are constituencies numbering—one as low as 86 members, and many of no more than 200. To use a common expression, they can scarcely keep themselves warm. A few lawyers and nobodies can send up the member, who has, perhaps, no principle at all but where to find a pleasant lounge. The House of Common

The Endney Morning Berald.

TUESDAY, MARCH 22, 1859.

WE hope that those members of the House who are anxious for the protection of the magisterial Bench will not permit the question brought be-fore the Assembly by Mr. PLUNKETT to be evaded by a "count out." When the attend-ance is so small, it is in the power of any sec-tion of the A-sembly to arrest its proceedings; but it is also in the power of those whose case it is intended to defeat, to retaliate, and compel a decent regard to the public business, whatever may be its nature.

Mr. John Campbell is beyond the reach of censure. No one will attribute to him any blame for performing the only function of which he appears capable. Nor can he be considered otherwise than as the tool of the Ministry. The relation in which he stands to Mr. Cowper, and to the Minister of Finance justifies, the country in regarding his movements as mainly directed by his official friends. Not that every step he takes is suggested by them—the applause he receives for the work he performs is as clear an indica-tion of what is expected of him as an actual njunction to perform it. The CAMPBELLS have professed to be great patriots. Mr. Robert has shown his patriotism by accepting an office for which he is alike mentally and physically incompetent, and the duties of which he has never performed; and Mr. John has displayed his love of country in stopping the business of the Legislature, at which, from the narrowness of his understanding he is understanding. the narrowness of his understanding, he is un-The time will come when the able to assist. It is for the House to prevent the defeat of a measure necessary for the protection of the magistracy, and the purity of our courts. Let be remembered that nine-tenths of the legal business is transacted within the police courts— that all those small cases which affect the great body of the people are adjudicated there. If wrong be done in the superior courts of justice, the eye of the world will be upon them. The Press will report them. Public indignation will immediately pronounce against any misdoing. But in the remote districts where there is no Press, or where the Press is apt to be under particular influence—where the people have no means of appeal or redress not involving enormous expense as well as delay, magis-terial misconduct is a terrible evil. When, therefore, anything distinctly and flagrantly wrong comes before the Government of the country, the course pursued is not only to be considered in reference to the particular individual, but also as to the countenance or discouragement it may afford in all similar cases of was concerned-could be only regarded in one of two lights: either Dr. HABBIS was grossly ignorant of the first principles of magisterial propriety-he did what was wrong without consciousness; or he acted corruptly. We have leaned to the former opinion, although some facts recorded would give a strong colour to the less favourable conclusion. It is possible, that in acting as he did, there was some degree of dogged indifference mixed with the inadvertence of stupidity—creating a strong presumption that he was unfit for the magisterial office in any but, nevertheless, not corrupt.

dismissal from the commission of the peace, and at once, under any Government. Mr. BROWNE. stipendiary magistrate, and, therefore, liable to the loss not merely of his office on the Bench, but also of his income vas charged by Dr. HARRIS with having committed a gross assault upon a Mr. Thomas, between one and two o'clock in the morning, in a public-house. He further imputed to this agistrate that he had declared he would not grant magistrate that nenandeceare are wontened grant a summons to the person upon whom the assault was committed. Surely, if any magistrate were guilty of these acts, he ought to be ignominiously dismissed from the Bench. But Mr. HARGRAVE has pronounced these charges un-founded—that they had been either abandoned or sufficiently and substantially disproved. Another charge brought by Dr. Harris is that another of the magistrates, Mr. Cox, acted like a prosecuting counsel rather than a judge—that he "twisted evidence" to his (Dr. Harris' disadvantage, and "supplied, in insinuations, what he could not find in facts." Can any one doubt if these charges were true that Mr. Cox ought to be dismissed from the commission of the peace? Can anything be worse than for a magistrate to display so gross a bias as to twist evidence and supply in-sinuations where he could not find fact? The charges against Mr. Cox may be said to have arisen out of the case itself, and, therefore, though of a very serious nature, and demanding severe censure, are yet susceptible of some excuse; but those which were alleged against Mr. Browne were entirely unprovoked; they had no relevance to the points at issue, and they must be recorded to the points at issue, and they must be regarded as not only vindictive and defamatory, but made in bad faith. If Dr. HARRIS was cognisant of conduct such as he attributes to Mr. Cox, in reply to charges made against himself, ought he not at once to have addressed a complaint to the Government, or at least, as a magistrate, to have openly denounced the conduct of Mr. Browne? Instead of this, the charge is not produced but as a miserable tu quoque, which, if sustainable, would only have gone to show that both Mr. Browne and Dr. HARRIS were unfit to be entrusted with the dministration of justice.

Of the parties involved in this dispute we personally know nothing. We form our conclusion from the papers which have been laid upon the table of the House. In our opinion there are he made that there are the reserve to the control of the control o there can be no doubt that the impunity with which Dr. HARRIS has escaped has arisen from party considerations, and that if the result of this discussion shall be favourable to the Government, they will owe their escape, not to the merits of the case or to the impressions of the Assembly with reference to its merits, but to the political circumstances of the Country.

These things point to the necessity of some change in the constitution and surveillance of the magisterial bench. It is impossible not to feel that in the hands of an administration de-pendant upon party support every question con-nected with the administration of justice will be liable to perversion. The gentlemen who have been calumniated by Dr. Harris can never sit with him again upon the bench without feeling that they are degraded, and the public will consider that the responsibility of magistrates is to be measured by the relation in which they stand to members of the Assembly

A CORRESPONDENT in the north calls attention to the newly developed importance which attaches to the colonisation of the northern coasts of Australia, as respects the carrying out of the various projects for uniting Australia of the various projects for uniting Australia with India and Europe by means of the electric telegraph. The occupation of the northern half of this vast island continent has long furnished a theme for theoretical projects and speculative ideas, but very little has been done in the way of practical attempts to realise the notion of a tropical colony. Only once has a settlement been made, namely, at Port Essington, and that was more as a military occupation, to vindicate the right of the Crown to the territory, than with any earnest purpose of starting colonisation. For this latter result the time had not then quite come, but it is worth careful consideration whether the time may not be fairly considered to have arrived now. The prospect of a telegraphic mion be-tween Australia and India, gives a new importance to the value of the territory itself to the British Crown, and increases the desirableness of its being occupied under civilised govern-ment. We are accustomed to talk of Port Curtis being the northern limit of the land line of telegraph on the Eastern coast of Australia, simply magisterial misconduct.

The conduct of Dr. Harris in sitting during the adjudication of a case in which he had a personal interest—in which his own property from that point onward, as being a better alternative than that of trusting the wire to the risks of a desert inhabited only by an uncivilised aboriginal population. But if the country of a desert inhabited only by an uncivilised aboriginal population. But if the country were peaceably settled there can be no question that a land line is, in every respect, superior to a subaqueous line. It is cheaper to construct in the first instance, more accessible in case of accident, and more easily durlicated or triplicated as the husiness may duplicated or triplicated as the business may increase. So great is the preference bestowed on a land line over a water line that some per-sons have proposed to bury the wire, while others have suggested that a line of military posts should be established as a protection to posts should be s a population adapted to the climate, in the immediate neighbourhood, and which can be easily imported. There is a large area of land sufficiently fertile to warrant the outlay on it of capital and labour, and for such articles as might be produced, there is alway a steady and abundant market. In America, the march of colonisation is and has been for years setting in the direction of the contiguous tropical countries. The annexation of Texas and Northern Mexico have been the first steps to which the tries. The annexation of Texas and Northern Mexico have been the first steps to which the purchase or conquest of Cuba, and the absorption of the remainder of Mexico, seem to be the natural sequel. Unfortunately, this acquisition of southern territory has always been the product to a wides extension of the hateful prelude to a wider extension of the hateful system of slavery. In this respect Great Britain cannot follow suit. But it rests with her appacannot follow suit. But it rests with her appa-rently, to show that industry can be made to exist in hot countries without compulsory labour, and the northern coast of Australia seems to be reserved as a fine theatre on which to display the experiment.

If a settlement were fairly formed at any suitable spot between the mouth of the Victoria and the Gulf of Carpentaria, under auspices which offered fair guarantees of security for person and property, there would be no serious difficulty in driving stock thicher. The journey of Leich-Hard, and still later, that of Gregory, show that horses, cattle, and sheep might be safely taken across, if there were sufficient inducement to make the attempt. Enterprising overlanders would not be wanting who are all the safely the safe offered fair guarantees of security for would not be wanting, who would show how to accomplish the task. Two of the GREGORY's are at present at the north, and would doubtless stee a present at the north, and would doubtless be ready to reap fresh laurels, if not more substantial prizes by helping to stock a country they have already traversed as explorers.

The northern coast of Australia is still nominally make the northern coast of Australia is still no northern they have already traversed as explorers.

The northern coast of Austrafia is still nominally under the sway of the Government of New South Wales. Were it about to rereain so, it would be natural to look to the authorities at Sydney to take whatever steps might be necessary to promote settlement there. But the separation of the Middle from the Northern districts, which we are told is soon to take place, cuts off Sydney from the North altogether. The unappropriated territory will then nominally fall under the charge of the Executive at Brisbane. But the Government of the young colony will be too busy in setting its own house in order, and in attending to the wants of the districts already occupied, to have any loisure or fands to bestow on speculative settlements on the North coast. The policy which would seem to be the wisesst under the circumstances, is for the Crown to allot to Moreton Bay whatever share of territory may seem to be adequate or convenient, and to reserve possession of the surplus unalienated would not be very great, and the reward, if the experiment proved successful, would be far more than commensurate.

A short time ago, the late Mr. Cruisthan commensurate.

A short time ago, the late Mr. CRUIK-SHANK projected a settlement at the mouth of the Victoria River, and enquired at the Colonial Office what encouragement he might expect. The authorities then threw cold water on his proposal. But it is possible that the idea might be more favourably received the idea might be more favourably received now. The attention of British merchants has been strongly called to the value of the commerce of the Eastern Archipelago, and the Dutch monopoly therein, and the importance of England having an adequate footing in that neighbourhood, by Sir James Brooke. There is also now a Colonial Minister, known to be ambitions of making his tenure of office distinguished by some great acts of policy. He has already carved out one new colony on the north-west coast of America; he is about to

SYDNEY DISTRICT QUARTER SESSIONS. Monday, Maker 21.

These sessions commenced this day, with a calendar of 11 prisoners for trial.

Before the Chairman.

The Crown Prosecutor conducted the following a bailee of goods or chattels shall, with intent to defraud, convert such goods or chattels, or any part thereof, to his own use, or the use of any person other than the owner thereof, he shall be guilty of larceny."

Margaret Lammon was indicted for that she did, on the 10th February lest, feloniously steal 18 pairs of gloves, 6 collars, 6 pairs of sleeves, two pairs of stays, 12 pieces of tape, 1 box, and 1 piece of insertion, from the premises of one William Sharp, of the South Head Road, being his property. Verdict, guilty. Sentenced to be imprisoned in Sydney gaol, with hard labour, for six months; one day in each week in solitary confinement.

Mr. Moffatt defended the prisoner.

The prisoner received a most excellent character by several respectable witnesses.

The Court adjourned at five o'clock until ten o'clock to the prison morning.

the north-west coast of America; he is about to detach another from New South Wales; and might view favourably the proposal to erect a fresh province on our northern coast. If the subject were put before him officially, backed by some adequate expression of opinion from our Parliament, he would probably see that the telegraphic requirements coming coincidently with the re-arrangement of territory necessary to the separation of Moreton Bay, made the present time peculiarly appropriate for turning England's title to the northern coast of Australia to some good account.

MELBOURNE.

[By Electric Teleoraph.]

Monday, 6:30 p.m.

The Ministerial difficulty is still unsettled. Rumour says that Mr. Harker intends to resign, notwithstanding the remonstrances of his colleagues.

The mail by the Columbian is delivered.

The provision market is firm. Butter and candles, quotations higher; bottled beer is in demand.

The conduct of the London shareholders of the Geelong Railway is very detrimental to the introduction of Victorian bonds in the London Stock Exchauge. blow, with increased violence, took him into custody; he resisted, until a man dragged him (defendant) away; as soon, however, as he liberated himself from his friend, he came back and struck him again, whereupon he (witness) drew his staff, and knocked him down, and so kept him until he had secured him by handcuffing him; defendant all the while kicking and biting—and so violent was his resistance that witness had scarcely to this hour recovered the use of his arms; his tousers were completely destroyed by defendant's teeth. The Bench found Jones guilty of the assault, and sentenced him to be imprisoned and kept to hard labour two calcadar months. He was then charged with having wiffully destroyed the constable's clothes, for which he was ordered to pay the damages, 20s., or to be fauther imprisoned two months. The ruffan was very inschent to the Court, to which in all probability may in some degree be attributed the more than ordinary severity of the sentence, though otherwise richly merited.

John Brown was fined 20s. far disorderly conduct in the market on Saturday night, and Joseph Hartley, for obstructing the constable in the execution of his duty on that occasion, was sentenced to pay 20s., pricalty, or to be imprisoned three days.

Thomas Saville, Philip Brocksopp, and Stophen Hutchinson, for fighting in Pitt-street and Kingstreet, and refusing to desist when requested by the police, were severally sentenced to pay 20s., or to be imprisoned seven days.

James Simpson and Mary Leary were found guilty of indecent conduct in Hyde Park, about one o'clock on Sunday morning, and were each sentenced to pay 25 or to be seven days imprisoned.

A person named Quail was charged by Catherine Blunden with having assaulted her, and her vosaion of the affair presented a most outrageous and unprovoked offence. She swore that defendant on passing threw a stone into the house, and that it was within a hair's heredith of striking her husband, who was at work—that she went to remonstrate with him upon so cowardly an act, whereupon he abused her and her husband, challenged the latter to fight, and was making his way into the house, when she took up a broom to push him back; he wrested the broom from her, and broke it by striking her therewith. This was totally denied, and for the defence witnesses were called, who swore that the complainant abused and insuited the defendant, calling him by opprobrious, names, and that when he went to laquite the cause of such conduct was assaulted by her; that she broke the broom by striking him, and morcover, struck him with an iron bucket or pot, and threw water over him. In dismissing the charge their Worships in very severe terms expressed their reprobation of such a case having been brought into Court. Quail, it appeared, had been summoned to suswer this charge, but not knowing the consequence, had neglected to appear when called, and was now brought before the Court, in pursuance of a warrant.

John Williams, of Castlerengh-street, publican, appeared on summons to answer an information by inspector Singleton, for having on the 11th instant suffered certain persons resorting at his house to exercise therein a certain analwful game with cards. Inspector M'Gee deposed that about three o'clock on the morning of the 11th instant he was on duty in Elizabeth-street, and seeing a light in defendant's premises entered his yard, the gate of which was not secured, and through the window he saw several persons playing cards; he stood a few minutes and then went in; he found defendant's servant and seven or eight men in the room; several of the men held cards in their hands, and some had drink before them on the table; two of the raen left the house when he did. Sergeant Kerr, who accompanied inspector M'Gee, gave similar evidence. For the defence Mr. Roberts called the servant, who deposed that the men who played cards were lodgers in the house, that it was done without the knowledge of defendant, who was ill in bed, and denied the allegation of the witnesses for the prosecution that two of the men left the house with the officers of police. Their Worships found defendant guilty, and sentenced him to pay a penalty of £5, with £1 4s. 6d. costs. Mr. Cory conducted the prosecution.

Josiah Mason and Thomas Pendergast, publicans, were each fined 40s., with 24s. 6d, for costs, for keeping open their houses for the sale of liquor during prohibited hours.

A few trumpery assuults were disposed of, in which he penalties varied from 5s. to 10s.

WATER POLICE COURT.

WATER POLICE COURT.

BEFORE the Water Police Magistrate, Mr. M. Metcalfe, and Mr. J. Shoobert.

John Way was brought before the court in custody of constable Duffy, charged with being a prisoner of the Crown illegally at large. Jahn Long Horsey, clerk in the convict department, produced a list of runaway convicts from Van Diemen's Land, in which appeared the name of prisoner, per ship Susan, tried at the Central Criminal Court, London, on the 2nd of January, and sentenced to transportation for life. He had abscended from the service of Mr. Berford, of Hobert Town; and his person answered in desertition to the particulars set forth in the list. Prisoner admitted that he was the prisoner named John Way, and satared that he had been in this colony five years, working in the bush. Committed to gool until an opportunity offered for transmitting him to Tasmania. John Maloney pleaded guilty to a breach of the Police Act, in having allowed two cows, his property, to stray in Kent-street. Fined 10s., and ordered to pay 4s. 6d., the costs of court.

William Thomas, a seaman belonging to the Light of the Age, was charged with having assaulted Peter Achigrave, a seaman of the barque Robertina, These parcies were complete strangers to each other, complainant stating that he had never seen defendant before Saturday night last, when he knocked complainant down with a blow on the back of the head, there having been no previous altercation to occasion the attack. Defendant was fined 40s.; and in default of payment was sentenced to twenty-one days' imprisonment.

John Lawson and Ann Leary were found guilty of having indecently exposed titler persons in a public thoroughfare. The male prisoner was fined £3, and in default of payment was sentenced to one month's hard labour in gaol; the female (whose testimonials from the police were very unfavourable) was fined in the same amount, but in default she was committed to prison, there to be kept to hard labour for three months.

Michael O'Connor was charged with liaving assaulted Henry Goodes. Defendant pleaded guilty. It was stated that on the night of St. Patrick's Day complainant and defendant were passing along the road, when the former made some allusion to diffendant being an Irishman, which led to the offence complained of, defendant striking plaintiff several times with his fast. Fined 40s., and ordered to pay costs of court.

George Wilson, who had been found drank at a public place at the North Shore, was fined 10s., or to be imprisoned for twenty-four hours.

Several cases for the recovery of seamen's wages were on to-day's paper, most of which involved a legal point as to whether agreements, duly signed by seamen, who therein waived all claim to wages, on consideration that they, on that account take their discharge, and that further claims to their services (as per-articles) be relinquished by the master, should afterwards bar their right to recover. The 182nd section of the Merchant Shipping Act provides "that no seaman shall by any agreement forfeit his lien upon the ship, or be deprived of any remedy for the recovery of his wages, to which he would otherwise have been entitled." Their worships, in order to save defendants expenses by prohibition, postponed these cases until the 18th of April, when the point will have been decided by the Judges.

that the lefth of April, when the point will have been decided by the Judges.

The Tank Stream.—On two public occasions lately, Alderman Sutherland called the Mayor's attention to the state of the Tank Stream, and expressed a wish that he would direct the health officer's notice to that feetid characel, with a view to its condition being reported on in a sanitary, asspect. It appears that three years ago the Government having appointed the selling of a considerable vacant space, which was adjacent to the Tank Stream, entered into a contract with a party for the requisite amount of covering in, and the work was executed. The allotments being put up for sale, realised as much as £40,000, not doubt upon the presumption that a perragent sewer had been constructed. It now comes to light that only a temposary job was effected; and that the timber used, consisting of girders for the most part unsound, and rotten Gregon planks, which had been "used up" for city sewerage purposes, had been to make the timber used to be not made up to the presumption that a permanent in the property of the work was the presumption. part unsound, and rotten Cregon planks, which had been "used up" for city sewerage purposes, had been found useks for any works above ground. An illustration of the process of decay going on in the timber-work wasto be seen—and we believe still is—in Hunter-street, between Mr. C. Newton's building allow erecting, and Mr. Hamikton's shop. Several yards lower down the stream, likewise, the badly-expected work has shown itself, in even a more dilapidated condition. In both places large chasms have been farmed by the falling in of bodies of earth four or five feet in dippth, in consequence of excessive saturation during the labelong since fallen away from their position, together with the stone work above them, into the bed of the stream, thereby causing a very noxious condition of the sewer, through the retention of putrefying substances by the distruction. The channel, which is formed by walk of roughly-faced stone work those or four feet decay, and into feet apart, is apanased by girders about aix feet asaundse, which form the bays, and servei to support the planking until it fell away. Mr. Subterland gave it as his opinion, as a practical builder, that the whole of the work executed with these frail materials, including that portion of it near the Circular Capay, would of necessity have to be done over again, and that the undoing of it would cost more than would have been aufficient 1.5 do it properly at first, in consequence of so large as amount of excavation being necessary. We have been informed that an authorised inaspection of the open drain as the as Bridge-street, a length of thy yards, has been made, and that all the nuisance is revealed in the shape of dead carcases, was one or two dead fowls. Much feculent matter, however, evidently lies high from view—the laky-looking sewage giving out, under the heat of the day, a most ill-odoured effluvium. Added to this, is a nuisance existing on the separapite to this, is a nuisance existing on the separapite to the length (which is about 700 feet, from Hunter-s found useless for any works above ground. males, 4; female, 1. They were attended by eight or nine Peruvian natives, whose expenses would average £400 a-year.

Mr. Leder was then introduced and gave the following particulars in answer to questions from the meeting. The animals were perfectly adapted to this colony, having much improved since their arrival; there could be no doubt that they would continue to improve if they had proper attendance. As to any estimate of their cost there would be very little use in making one out, his personal losses in the speculation having been so large. He calculated that, for four years, there would be no return from the flock except an increase in the animals; we should sustain ourselves and nothing more, the produce of wool would pay for the expenses of keeping. There would probably be an increase of 1500 animals in five years. The animals ought, on every consideration, to be kept together, as there was a cross breeding gaing on. Only two men would be wanted to take charge of the flock, the others could be sent back to their own country. He had in his possession account sales, received in 1851, from his brother in London, of wool produced 'rom a cross breed of the alpacas, and vicunas, which realised 14s, per lb. Between here and Melbourne, somewhere about the Australian Alps, would be the best place for the alpacas: they had been used to a cold country, coming from high rocky table land.

The Chathram observed that the facts were before the meeting, and he would be glad to hear any proposition.

The CHAIRMAN observed that the facts were before the meeting, and he would be glad to hear any proposition.

Mr. H. Mort suggested that any gentlemen who were willing to take shares, should communicate with Mr. Wrench.

Mr. S. D. Gordon thought it more desirable that a provisional committee should be formed out of the present meeting, and that the meeting should be adjourned till they had communicated with Mr. Ledger, and prepared some definite proposal to be brought up at that meeting; so that the animals might not be lost to the colony, having been introduced here under such disadvantageous terms. A committee could most conveniently arrange the preliminaries to bring the matter again before the public, and start a company. (Hear, hear.) He would, therefore, propose the following resolution:—"That a provisional committee be appointed to hold communication with Mr. Ledger as to the price he is prepared to sell the whole of the flock of alpaces and llamas now running at Collingwood, to make such other preliminary arrangements for the formation of a company, and to report to an adjourned meeting, to be held at the Exchange, on Monday next, the 28th instant. That such committee consist of Mr. Henry Mort, Mr. A. Hodgson, Mr. W. H. Suttor, Mr. D. Ramsay, Mr. T. A. Murray, Mr. Thomas Andrew, Mr. Peel Raymond, Mr. Thomas Skinner, Mr. S. D. Gordon, Mr. W. Macleay, Mr. George Oakes, and Mr. James Byrnes, with power to add to their number."

Mr. A. Honson seconded the resolution, which, after being verbully amended at the suggestion of Mr. T. A. Murray, was put to the meeting, and unanimously passed.

Mr. Dras Trausson rose for the purpose of expressing his entire conservations.

Mr. A. Honoson seconded the resolution, which, after being verbally amended at the suggestion of Mr. T. A. Murbany, was put to the meeting, and unanimously passed.

Mr. Dras Thomson rose for the purpose of expressing his entire concurrence in the object of the meeting. He considered it would be a great national loss if the animals were from any cause to be withdrawn from the colony; and it was, therefore, their duty to make the utmost possible exertion to retain them. It was scarcely possible for a company to be formed which would raise a sum of money large enough for purchasing the alpacas that would be remunerative to Mr. Ledger. Viewing this in a great national sense, and seeing the numerous precedents that had been established in times gone by, when large donations had been given by the Government for the importation of sheep, horses, and cattle,—considering that large grants had been given for the introduction of Saxon-merino sheep, and also to the Australian Agricultural Company, on condition of their expenditure of a large capital within the country,—he thought these would form excellent precedents for a similar procedure towards Mr. Ledger. This was the first instance, except a small importation of some eight or ten, of the introduction of alpacas into this colony; and the Government, as far as his humble judgment went, would be justified in giving a remuneration to Mr. Ledger for his exertions. This importation would open a new era in colonial industry. The introduction of the alpacas would be as important in days to come as was that of the fine, woolled sheep; and it would have this further advantage, that many of these animals could browse or grase on land unfitted for other purposes,—so bringing into successful effect lands which were unavailable for other purposes, either for agriculture or for the ordinary descriptions of pasturage. This, he thought, would fully justify the Government in giving Mr. Ledger a bonus. It might be given either in an absolute grant of land, or, what might be surpose and CHURCH SOCIETY.—A meeting of St. Philip's Auxiliary to the Church Society was held last evening the Church. The very reverend the Deep of Sydney took the chair, and after the introductory prayers delivered an address, explaining the objects, exertions, and position of the society, and earnestly exhorted to increased efforts for its maintenance and efficiency. The secretary read the half-yearly report, which, as compared with the previous half-year, showed an augmentation of funds, though the contributors appeared not to have become proportionately more numerous. The rest of the creaing was occupied in a lecture by the Rev. J. Steel, upon the "Progress of the Irish Church Missions," in whichgish rev. gentleman described in an interesting manner the kind of work undertaken by the Mission Society, its difficulties and peculiarities, their mode of bringing conviction to the minds of the people, their progress, and the isetimonies of their uccess. A vote of thanks having been awarded to the rev. lecturer, the proceedings were brought to a close by singing the doxology.

Weslevan Methodist Society was held, vesterday evening, in the school-room beneath the York-street Chapel, for the commencement of a new organisation in connexion with that body, to be called the New South Wales Wesleyan Methodist Church Sustentiation and Extension Society. Although bearing a new title, its intention was stated to be to bring into more effective and systematic operation the various appliances already in use; it will have for its object the promotion of the general interests of the Wesleyan Methodist body, more especially in the creation of new interests in the remoter districts, and in assisting in the erection of large chapels in the more populous neighbourhoods. Allusions were made to the withdrawal of a portion of the Government grant, and the possible withdrawal of the whole, to enforce the necessity of increased exertions to make up for this loss to the income of the Government grant, and the possible withdrawal of the whole, to enforce the necessity of increased exertions to make up for this loss to the income of the Society. Interesting and forcible speeches were delivered by several ministers and laymen, and at the close of the meeting about £200 was raised for the new Society in donations and subscriptions.

Catholic Literaray Society of St. Mary's, was delivered yesterday evening in the hall of St. Mary's seminary by the Reverned J. H. Curtis, O.S.B., the subject being—"What Christianity does for man as an individual and as a member of society." The hall was appropriately and beautifully decorated with paintings, flags, and stulks of the Indian corn, the latter having an express reference to the reversed lecturer, who is a native of this colony. The New South Wales ensign, an Irish flag, and other emblems and banners, occupied a prominent position above the dais, at the southern of the Society—Mr. Diman—the Rev. Mr. Curtis commenced his address. The lecturer meeting concluded with prayer. About 500 persons were present.

Represent of the unique of the legent of the come a candidate for the suffrage of the electors:—" Sydney, March 7th, 1859. Gentlemen,—it grieves me to decline the honour which you propose for me of being a candidate, with your powerful support, for the electoral district of the Hume. I have already resisted the solicitations of my equally warm friends of the Tumut, notwithstanding that they had peculiarly strong claims upon me. Were I quite free to choose my course now, I should willingly sid in the way you desire; in another way I shall still be glad to cooperate with you, and I believe there is fat too much good sense and public spirit amongst the people of Albury to admit of your efforts being unsuccessful. I am in hopes that I shall be able to meet my Albury constituents shortly after the conclusion of the session. And with many thanks, I remain, dear Sirs, yours faithfully, Jons HAv." patronage of Sir Charles Nicholson, was given by Mr. Connery, Lest evening, at the School of Arts. The lecture hall was well filled by a highly respectable audience, which gave frequent marks of its approval of the delivery of some of the most telling passages of the selections. These were made upon a very wide range, including, of course, our immortal bard Shakspeare, without whose productions no display of the kind would be complete; "The Bridge of Sighs" of poor Tom Hood; "The Bells" of the late E. A. Poe; Longfellow's "Excelsior;" the magnificent Invective of Sheridan, delivered against and on the trial of Warren Hastings; and passages from Byron, Southey, Dryden, and the Transatlantic poet, Longfellow. The whole entertainment passed off most successfully.

Cuttostries or Lightning.—Lightning presents many curiosities, among which are what is termed "fulgurities," or tubes, which the lightning constructs when it falls upon a silicious spot, by fusing the sand. They may be called casts of thunderbolts. In some hillocks of sand in Cumberland, these hollow tubes have been found from one-lifteenth to two inches in diameter, tapering, perhaps, to a mere point. The entire extent of the tubes produced in this manner may be thirty feet, but they usually separate into numerous branches, and have the appearance of the skeleton of an inverted tree. They are lined with glass, as smooth and perfect as if it had been made in a glass-house, instead of by the simple and instantaneous operations of a power of nature.

The attention of capitalists, Parmers, Garderers, Builders, and of all those who desire at once a most secure and peculiarly advantageous investment is specially solicited.

EF As nearly the whole of the property has now been urveved, do., tile sale will take place on a very early coasion.

MESSRS. W. DEAN and CO. have been favoured with instructions peremptorily to sell by public auction, at their Warehouse, Pitt and O'Consell streets, on an early day, of which due notice will be the contract of the contract by public auction, at their Warehouse, Pitt and O'Counell streets, on an early day, of which due notice will be given.

A most important and valuable portion of the above estate, which is situated about six miles from the Sydney Post Office, and two miles from Cook's Hiver.

It is presumed that such an eligible investment has very seldom presented itself in any of these colonies. Being so well known, it is hardly necessary to state that this property enjoys a pre-eminence above all other of our suburban sites for acknowledged salubrity; and the admired magnificence of the whole picturesque locality, commanding perhaps by far the finest prospect which ever this extensive region, so noted for the finest views, can possibly furnish. The prospect combines the delightful expanse of the wide ocean, including the Botany Heads, together with an extensive horizon, encircled on all sides by a boundless range of bold woodland.

The portion submitted to public competition amounts to 1100 acres, in which many unusual advantages are presented. A crystal stream furnishing a supply of never-failing water, which, scientifically applied for the purposes of artificial irrigation, might, at a small cost, be made of incalerable benefit to the purchasers of this property, particularly this climate, where destructive drought as often prevails. By means of a Government road, 3 chains wide, passing through the land, a most valuable intercommunication and important traffic is at once established with the Illawarra district—a locality which now equals in progress any of our most favoured outlying settlements. The beauficial results arising from this advantage may at once be estimated from the peculiar fact that, on the Berley Estate, there are already several most fourishing farms and market gardens, in the highest state of cultivation, with an excellent hotel, and a well-attended Wealeyas Estate, there are already several most nouranns sarms and market gardens, in the highest state of cultivation, with an excellent hotel, and a well-attended Wealeyas Church.

At the same time its very proximity to Sydney must invitably add an increasing yearly value to the land, drawing it more closely to the metropolia, as a most inviting spot for superior villas, and picturesque subarboas retreats for health, luxury, and relaxation. It is only needful to state the corroborative fact of the extraordinary rise in value of this delightful situation, that one of the resident preprietors, Mr. Isaac Parkes, occupying an allotment of fitteen acres, which he purchased for £15 per sers, has very recently refused £35 per acre for the same, so unpreodented has been the enormous rise in values, by extending to this excellent land the industrial benefits of careful cultivation and general improvement.

The land will be properly surveyed and laid out in allotments of various sizes, suitable for building sites, villas, market gardens, small farms, and such other purposes as may be considered to be adapted to a locality, all of which may so soon be very reasonably expected to form town parks to this rapidly progressing capital of the Southern hemisphere.

It is besides quite obvious that for agricultural purposes hemisphere.

It is besides quite obvious that for agricultural purposes
the expense of clearing the land would more than be defrayed by the easy convenience of removing the timber to Bydney for fuel, &c.

The Auctioneers could, with much propriety, say more relative to this important property, but as intending purchasers may view the land and judge for themselves any day prior to the sale, they doem further comment superdisous.

Title unexceptionaale.

For terms and further particulars apply to the Auctioneers, Pitt and O'Connell streets, Sydner. MONDAY, March 28th, at 11 o'clock.

yards of the Burwood Station.

F. BAKER has received instructions to the sell by public austion, at his Land Sale Rooms, Pitt and Bridge streets, on MONDAY, March 25th, at 11 o'clock,
All those valuable allotments of land, at Cheltenham, opposite Burwood Railway Station, having frontages to Birley-street, Elizabeth-street, the South Railway Terrace, William-street, and Park-street, altuate on the most elevated portions of the cetate, commanding a most extensive view of the Parramatta Road, the Liverpool Road, Hen and Chicken Bay, and are bounded on all sides by sung villa residences, and within 15 mile from the Ashfeld Station.

To clerks in solicitors or merchants' offices this beautiful and the state of the second contraction.

Station.

To clerks in solicitors or merchants offices this is a most inestimable opportunity of securing building allocuments in one of the finest and most aristocratic suburbs, within twenty minutes ride, per rail, from the metropolitic convenient to the Paramatta or Liverpool Reads.

All the allotments are on elevated and level pertions of the eatest, and are worthy the attention of all parties on the look-out for ville sites in healthy localities.

Highly Important Sale of Valuable Landed Properties.

Bight Building Allotments in the centre of Singleton.

Eight Hundred and Twenty Acres of the finest Land or the Williams River, and in the immediate neighbourhood of Dungog.

hoed of Dungog.

CHATTO and HUGHES have been instructed to sell by public auction, at their Sale Booms, 400, George-street, on WEDNESDAY, 20th April, at 11 o'clock, 8 valuable building allotments in the very best part of the rising and flourishing town of Singleton.

Few persons can doubt the immense increase of population and business which will be evident in Singleton, and the consequent advance in the value of property, on the completion of the Great Northern line of railroad (the Commissioners having determined to make that rising term the permanent terminus). The allotments now advertised are in close reighbourhood of the preposed station; and, so much are the auctioneers convinced of the great and immediate advance in value of property there, that they advised, on those grounds, to defer the sale of these allotments. The proprietor, however, directs their unreserved sale.

menta. The proprietor, however, directs their unreserved sale.

820 acres of the finest agricultural land on the "Williams," within a very short distance of Dungog.

BESCRIPTION.

"All that piece or parcel of land, containing eight hundred and twenty acres, more or less, county furtham, on Williams River, commencing at the sastern extreme of the south boundary line of a surveyed portion of fifty acres of land; and bounded on the north by that boundary line bearing west three chains from Williams River; on the west by one hundre? and forty-four chains of the east boundary line of John Mann's nineteen hundred and twenty acres grant, bearing south; on the south hy an east line of eighty chains; on the east by a north line of fifty chains to Williams River; and on the north-east by Williams River upwards to the eastern extreme of the south boundary line of a surveyed portion of fifty acres of land, being the land sold as Lot 10 in pursuance of advertisement, 95th June, 1855."

BY Much as the land in the Williams has been praised for its fertility, the aucti neers believe that the 826 acres now advertised form the pick of it, and, in the various portions, land well adapted for every country pursuit is to be found. The land will be sold in blocks of suitable sizes, or in one lot, to suit the convenience of purchasers.

It is almost superfluons to mention that there is now daily steam communication between the metropolis and the Williams, and that they are, in effect, but a very few hours easy travelling apart.

Full particulars can be obtained at the office of the suctioneers.
